CRAZE FOR GAMBLING, SAYS NORRISTOWN JUDGE
NORRISTOWN, Pa., Sept. 15.—
"There seems to be a mania for gambling," observed Judge Swartz, when he sentenced Benjamin Ziff, of Lansdale, to ten days in the county jail, $75 fine and costs, for permitting boys to operate slot machines in his cigar store.
"I am going to do what little I can to break up gambling in this county by sending to jail all persons convicted."

"GRAVEYARD" SHIFT GAY
SINCE MUSIC STARTED
MINNEAPOLIS, Sept. 15.—Stimulated by phonograph music, night clerks at the Minneapolis postoffice here have increased their speed and accuracy. Postmaster E. A. Purdy announced yesterday at the conclusion of tests covering a month's period.
"We have found that classical and popular records abolished worry during the 'graveyard' shift from 7 p. m. to 3 a. m.," Mr. Purdy said.

CONGRESS OF MEXICO TO AID OBREGON PLANS

Legislation Desired by President Seems Certain of Quick Action by Leaders.

By L. P. KIRBY.

MEXICO CITY, MEX., Sept. 15.—

Legislation desired by President Obregon, it is believed, will receive quicker action at the session of the Mexican congress which opened on September 1 than during the past session, during which important measures were held back.

It is hoped that the new session will be history-making and that congress will act to give impulse to a forward movement in Mexico. This was expected at the opening of the past session, but achievements proved disappointing.

The chief cause of obstruction in the past has been the presence in congress of numbers of men who watch for opportunities for bursts of oratory rather than ways of expedient business, and as the loudest rhetorical explosions can be made through denunciation, nearly all of the orators are obstructionists. Practically all of these men are still in congress, and will continue to be a menace to the progress of congressional work. If the new session falls short of expectations, it will be because of these silver-tongued speech-makers.

It is explained in excusing some of the delay during the past session that the holding back of several measures either had the approval of authorities of high esteem or was due to division of eminent opinion.

The banking bill is cited as an example. When this bill was proposed, it was intended to lift the moratorium in Mexico at the end of a year after the enactment of the measure. Had Congress passed the bill at once, the time for the lifting of the moratorium would be close at hand and Mexico is still in no condition for the resumption of creditors to make collections which would follow such a removal of the protection which borrowers have enjoyed for four years.

As a business man said: "If they'd lift the moratorium we'd all be in a hotter place than the North Pole." Doubt is also expressed that the plan to organize the Banco Unico, or great national bank, with sole authority to issue paper money, could have been carried out without success, even though Congress had acted on the proposed banking bill, as the project would have called for a large amount of new banking capital. This, it is said, would not have poured into Mexico from the United States and other countries, despite the wide apparent interest in the project among foreign bankers.

There is hope that a banking bill will be passed at the new session.
Such legislation is looked upon as certain if Mexico gains recognition from the United States at any time soon.

Look For Recognition.
Belief that recognition is drawing nearer has been strengthened because of the conference between President Obregon and the presidents of some of the great oil producing companies, and other indications of a better understanding. But there is still a substantial element which thinks that recognition is far off.

Ideas as to what should be included in the banking bill are constantly changing and the measure, when passed, will probably be widely different from the measure that was first proposed.

Banking legislation under the new order of things was first taken under consideration when General Salvador Alvarado was Secretary of the Treasury in the Cabinet of Provisional President Adolfo de la Huerta, who is now President Obregon's Secretary of the Treasury. General Alvarado, although out of the cabinet, continues to take a keen interest in banking legislation. He wants his ideas adopted which were subject to considerable remodeling after he retired from the cabinet. As he has influence in congress, he can do much to retard or expedite banking legislation.

Bankers Watch Program.

General Alvarado has not the confidence of the conservative business element, which includes the bankers.
He was governor of Yucatan when the seeds of radicalism were sown, which resulted in the harvest of business stagnation, idleness and general misery which that most unfortunate state in Mexico is reaping.
While in office, he made some statements which were so highly-colored as to cause some persons to describe him as a "bolshewik," but despite his liberal or radical views, he has met with substantial success in his own private business. His supporters think that he is admirably equipped to guide Mexico in the framing of banking laws. His opponents think that he is the last man in the world to be consulted or be permitted to put a finger in the pie.

President Obregon's message to congress was carefully prepared from reports made to him by the heads of all the departments. While these reports were being put together there was something resembling censorship in the departments.

In addition to suggestions for legislation during the new session, the message reviews what has been accomplished since the beginning of the Obregon administration on December 1 last. Economies in governmental expenditure are noted.

Opportunities for Making Money Are Greater Today Than Ever Before!

[One often hears men say, nowadays: "I wish I had the chance that John D. Rockefeller had," or perhaps mention such eminently successful and public-spirited men as James J. Hill, Andrew Carnegie, Stephen Girard and scores of others, long since "gathered to their fathers," but the memory of whose achievements will be an example and an inspiration to millions of energetic young men for generations to come.

[Ask any man whom you know, whose judgment is worth accepting, and he will tell you that opportunities in every line of human endeavor are far greater today than ever before.
The question is are YOU prepared to grasp them? If not, now is the time to start building for the future. Industry, thrift, patience, CHARACTER are the corner stones to build upon.
